Who are Healthwatch Sheffield?

Healthwatch Sheffield are the independent champion for people using health and social care services in Sheffield.

We want to hear people's experiences of doctors, dentists, hospitals, social care services and more.

Good or bad, we use these experiences to influence local commissioners and decision-makers, helping your voice to be heard by the people designing services. Our vision is a local healthcare system shaped by local people.

What do our volunteers do?

Our volunteers help us to improve health and care services for local people. There are lots of exciting ways to get involved, including –

Ambassadors: Our ambassadors go to events and fairs, speaking to people and learning about their experiences

Community Researchers: These volunteers work on more detailed research projects about health and care in Sheffield

Enter & View volunteers: Enter & View volunteers visit services around the city speaking to patients and staff

Meeting representatives: Our representatives attend meetings and boards in the city, representing local people's voices at the decision-making level

And there are so many more ways to volunteer! If you'd like to talk about volunteering to suit your skills, get in touch.
